SENATOR ERDMAN: Okay, and in the process...

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Or the Parkinson's or whatever.

SENATOR ERDMAN: And in the process of doing that, as I read the amendment it says, "the registry shall coordinate its activities..." because it would make sense to me, and this is reading this as a layman and common sense, that if I'm going to seek to get approval from somebody, I'm going to coordinate with the individual who wants that information to make sure that I'm providing the accurate information to the patient so that they can make the best decision possible.

SENATOR SCHIMEK: Yes.

SENATOR ERDMAN: Okay. So what I read this as saying is that if you're going to be on this registry, you can't contact them unless you do X, Y, and Z. And X, Y, and Z is the last sentence, which says, the way that we accomplish approval is by the registry coordinating this activities with the researcher or "the person desiring such contact" might even be a researcher, "and may authorize the person"...and that's where I read into this or that's why I think this says that in the process to obtain what starts on line 7 and ends on line 12, or line 13, to accomplish that I think you've got to do 13, 14, 15, and 16, and that says, here's the information to contact them, but we're going to coordinate with you because there might be a new plan out there. There might be a new research project that's never been thought of, and to gain someone's yes on this one as opposed to their no on it before, they're going to have to coordinate to call and ask them again. And what I see this saying is that you can call as a researcher if you're authorized by the registry to make that initial contact. That's how I read it and that's why I think there's not an "or" in there in my mind. This is just the guidelines of how to do it. The "or" comes and it's not an or, it's an "and." It says the registry shall coordinate it's activities, and then to me this "and may authorize" says or they might coordinate and allow them to make the direct contact. Do you see where that comes from? If Senator Schimek would yield.
